X-Ray Treated Hybrid Tulips

The miracle of X-Ray and the skill of a young Dutch schoolteacher gives you garden Tulips so strange in pattern, so new in form and color, that you have never seen them anywhere before — even in your dreams! Until a short time ago, these Tulips simply did not exist, and would never have been created at all if a teacher in the town of Lisse had not experimented with the effects of X-Ray irradiation on healthy Tulip bulbs. The X-Ray jumbled, split up, and then re-combined the chromosomes in the bulbs, and when they burst into bloom, the young teacher beheld in amazement and delight flowers that were doubled in size, blooms with unique shapes, others with curious fringed petals, still others with rare fragrance. There were thousands from which to choose, and a few were named and registered. Four years ago, a handful of a strikingly clear yellow variety was traded for a new Cadillac! The stock of unnamed seedlings has now become a burden of expense to the schoolteacher, and he has decided to offer a part of the stock to Breck's. Plant in groups of 3 or 6. 22 to 26 inches tall.

Breck's Stately Tulips for Spring Color!

WORLD'S LARGEST EARLIEST TULIP

Red Emperor

Just picture these Giant Tulips bringing your garden to life with their huge 9 in. brilliant scarlet-red blooms just as the Crocuses are waning and the Daffodils are flowering. The color and size are truly spectacular — a group of these fluorescent beauties blooming so early, is a breathtaking sight indeed — a real spotlight to all passersby. Once you've had them, you'll want more to make your spring garden the neighborhood show-place.

iously brilliant and as stout and sturdy as the Giant Darwins — but coming into bloom weeks

SCARLET DELIGHT

Reddest of all red tulips — shockingly brilliant and amazingly vigorous. Scarlet Delight has everything else in keeping with its bold color.
Huge blooms of elegant form — tall
stout stems and strong upstanding blue-green foliage. Scarlet Delight opens a few days earlier than most of the Darwins and its splendid substance makes it one of the longest lasting tulips in your garden.

CARRARA

The purest white tulip we know! So perfect is the bowl shaped form of Carrara that it looks as though it had been sculptured out of snowy Italian marble. Robust growth and a height of 29 inches at blooming time. Groups of white tulips planted in association with other tulips add immeasurably
to the overall effect and show each color to best advantage.

QUEEN OF THE NIGHT

Huge flaring goblets of rich royal velvety maroon — held aloft on stout 29 inch stems. By far the finest "black" tulip ever introduced. The richly textured blooms actually glisten in the sunshine and create a delightful contrast against a white fence or wall.
Use in groups to accent the pinks,
lavenders and whites.

BOUQUET TULIPS

Imagine it! Up to 5 or 6 flowers from each bulb. Each stem unfolds a glorious bou-quet with candelabra effect
atop the tall rigid stem.
They're exciting for arrangements and superb for massing in the garden. Our mixture is a blend of all
beautiful tulip shades.

DIDO

Long graceful blooms with a tantalizing fragrance that's as subtle as its color — a delightful suffusion of soft rosy apricot and tangerine — overlaid with a frosty sheen. Each petal is edged with a deeper shade and the base of the flower is rich golden yellow. A superb tulip to combine with May flowering perennials.

FIREGLOW

Leader of the fragrant tulips! Fireglow has an exotic perfume — sometimes likened to water-lilies, while others have called it a combination of Freesias and English Violets. Vibrant burnt orange goblets with gold shadings on strong 18 inch stems start blooming in mid-April. Fireglow also has a record for persisting many years.

Busy Little Elfs Usher In The Spring!

SNOWDROPS

"Fair maids in February — the earliest harbingers of spring and a joy to behold after the long dreary days of winter. You'll delight in a patch or two in a sheltered spot under shrubbery or in a sunny nook. Their pure white bells are a symbol of purity, and so the legend goes — "were born of a snowflake in the Garden of Eden." Plant Snowdrops in patches of a dozen or so, 3-4 in. apart, in places where late winter sun discourages snow, and bring the promise of Spring into your life earlier than you've ever known it. They'll increase in beauty year by year requiring no attention.

SPRING SNOWFLAKE

Like Giant Lily of the Valley — and just as charming and dainty! Graceful arching 15 inch stems carry ten or twelve lovely emerald tipped white bells. They start blooming with the Daffodils and continue well into the late Tulip season. Plant in light shade and leave undisturbed. They'll flourish for years and add gracious dignity to any planting. Combine with Daffodils, early yellow and lavender Tulips to bring beauty of form and intriguing variety to your bulb garden.

FBH621 5 for $.80; 10 for $1.45; 25 for $3.30

ENGLISH WOOD HYACINTHS

Scilla Campanulata

Very effective planted with Tulips for a late May display. Their soft shades blend beautifully and their graceful 15 in. stems of drooping bells lend a distinctive charm to all Tulip plantings. Ideal for naturalizing. Clear sky-blue, light rose and snow white in a hand blended balanced mixture of all three colors.

FBH590 25 for $1.00; 100 for $3.65

TULIP TIPS. If foliage is not given a chance to thoroughly dry upon the bulb, it cannot store up enough energy within it for blossoms the following year.

NEW PINK DAFFODILS

SPECIAL NOTICE. The pink and apricot daffodils do not always show the true colors in the bud stage or at earliest opening. As the flower matures the pink coloring develops and increases in intensity. Our own experience has shown that light shade is preferable for the so-called "Pinks".

Mrs. R. O. Backhouse. Still the Queen of the Pinks, and famous as the first "Pink Daffodil". Slender fluted trumpet opens with the soft creamy apricot gradually changing through delicate amber to a lovely delicate pink. Combines the grace and delicacy of a rare orchid.

FBH348 5 for $1.40; 10 for $2.45; 50 for $10.50

Pink Glory. Of all the recent "Pinks" — we give Pink Glory our vote. Pure white perianth offsets graceful soft apricot widely flared trumpet which ages to soft dainty light salmon later becoming the most ethereal and delicate pure pink. Long lasting flowers — and persistent bulbs.

FBH744 3 for $2.20; 5 for $3.35

Siam. Of all the "Pinks" this one seems to produce the largest flower. Pure white perianth of excellent form and substance — sets off a wide flaring rose apricot trumpet which changes gradually to a soft pink. Siam is destined to be a leader in the field of "Pinks".

DOUBLE FLOWERED DAFFODILS

Daphne. Like a lovely Gardenia in form — just as white and as fragrant too. Ideal for neat tailored corsages.

FBH426 9 for $1.50; 18 for $2.55; 50 for $6.75

Cheerfulness. (Double.) Fragrant little Gardenia-like blooms. Creamy white, tinted yellow center.

Yellow Cheerfulness. (Double.) Beautiful clear gold-yellow form of the above.

MRS. WILLIAM COPELAND

This one should be called the Camellia-flowered daffodil! The broad overlapping petals have fine form and substance, opening gradually to present the appearance of a handsome creamy white double Camellia. Long lasting and intensely fragrant.

FBH436 10 for $1.75; 25 for $3.95; 50 for $7.50

Pot in bulb pans on arrival, and place pots in well drained, easily available spot where they can be surrounded with sod or sand and can become well established in the pots. Once good root growth has developed the pans can be brought indoors, carried along in a cool room so that foliage and stems will not get too tall.

Snow Princess. Glorious new poeticus of exceptional substance. Snowy white perianth forms a beautiful background for the brilliant cherry red short frilled cup. Late and long lasting and very tall. The very finest poeticus variety we know today and one which is attracting great attention wherever shown. Grand for naturalizing.

CAMASSIA LEICHTLINI

At last — a tall blue flower at tulip time — imagine that! Glorious spikes — up to 30 inches of lovely porcelain blue stars — closely set on the sturdy stem and blooming with the last of the daffodils and through the Giant Darwin season. Naturalizes well. Plant in clumps of 5 or more for best effect. Camassias like moisture and will thrive when naturalized in meadow or field. Native North American Indians called it the Blue Quamash. Bulbs of certain native species were cooked and eaten by the Indians, but we're suggesting that you raise them to feed your soul and decorate your table — using other more palatable food for your physical needs.
